Synopsis

Even as businesses come to terms with the disruption caused by the pandemic, societal and behavioural changes will have a lasting impact. Given the increased market volatility, there are growing concerns about the fair value of companies and post-Covid factors to consider. This session gives an overview of the challenges in valuing businesses in a volatile environment and explores some of the factors influencing valuation.

We hope to be able to share with you:

- Challenges brought about in uncertain economic times.
- Tips on preparing short-term and long-term financial projections.
- Risk considerations and the impact on the discount rates.
- What to look out for when utilising market approach.
